Chaltotrasvilla, August 15, 1894.
Grand Master of Masons of Virginis Henry W. Murray del bere at the residence of Judge Walson at 833 o'clook this verening.

Mr. Murray was attacked in Southwest Virginis about three weeks ago, the disease first effecting his leg. He proceeded to his bome in Louisa, when his family physician thought it would be best for him to go to the springs for rest. He came fo Charlottesville for consultation, when his disease became so pronounced that he could not be removed. He died from some degenerative charge of the brain, due probably to inflammation of the clissue the affection has been coming on for some time, but that the final break-down was hastened by mental and physical overwork. His daughter, Miss Lilly, was with him when he died. For some days he had been totally unconscious. His remains will protably be taken charge of by the local Masonic lodges until the grand efficiency of the Masonic Index of the Masonic frateratity and others, and from his physicians—Dra Rogers and Dabney.

SEETCH OF HIS CAREER.

[Henry William Murray was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1826. His father was a matter thishman. His mother was a Miss Wilson, an English lady of an honorable family. The lafter died when the son was quite young, but among his most cherished and sacred memories was that of her teaching before her with elasped and uplifted hands, and the rising, with bowed head, to repair the Apostes' creed. Hy some misfortune his father was reduced from affluence to poverly, and on that account came to this country, and, it is believed, directly to the county of Albemarle, when Henry was about fourteen years of age. The father, however, soon died, leaving the son in the employ ment of the late John TimberTake, who at the time was the proprietor of a large cotton-mill and of a store at Shadwell, some four miles east of Charlottesville, and now a station on the Chesspeake and Olto railway.

Mr. TimberTake was soon impressed with a sense of young Murray's intelligence, delity, and efficiency, and esp

The property low and little of the property low and little of the handsome talent for speaking, it was the handsome talent for speaking, it was the chancery practice in which Mr. Murray most delighted and was most successful. He seemed never happier than when unravelling some old and complicated case. And such was his fame in this respect that such cases, after having defied the patience and skill of others, were often referred on him as special commissioner from counties and courts in which he dul not practice. At the breaking que of the late war Mr. Murray prometry raised a company of volunteers, and as secommander rendered gallant service to the Confederate cause, until disabled by failing health.

[Reported for the Dispatch.]

CHARLOTTESVILLE, August 15, 1884.

The Assembly convened at 10:35 A. M.—

President Beverly in the chair.

Upon motion of Captain Preston, discussions upon the various papers to be read were limited to five minutes.

Professor Scott, of Blacksburg College, then read a lengthy essay upon "Experimental Stations, with a View of Giving Practical Instructions to Farmers." This was a very fine and exhaustive paper, giving a very thorough review of fertilizers in all their various compositions, with the action of each upon different soils. He also read a dissertation upon "Seeds," which was listened to with marked attention.

The Virginian will publish to-morrow an article on the peanut crop, from which the following figures are taken: Number of bags handled in Norfolk by the cleaners, 213,938; stock on hand, 25,000 bags; in Petersburg, 55,000; in Smithfield, 40,000; in the counties, 25,000; estimated stock on hand elsewhere, 10,000—total, 368,038 bags.
Add to this 10,000 bags for good measure, and we have for the last crop about 375,000 bags, which will very nearly approximate the immense value of the last year's crop.

mate the immense value of the last year's crop.

Reports from all sections show the crop to be in good condition, and the acreage is perhaps from a fourth to athird greater than last year. This would make us look for a crop of say, two and a half millions of bushels for next year. The crop is expected to be of a superior quality, and dealers say the price always keeps up where the article is of good quality. C.

A Troy (N. Y.) special of Thursday says: Captain John Twamley, a well-known citizen, who resided on Whipple avenue, became suddenly insanc to-day, and coolly planned the murder of his wife and two children. Twamley procured two butcherknives and carefully sharpened them. Then he announced that he had been called upon from heaven to sacrifiee his family, and that he must do the bidding. Mrs. Twamley ran to the apartment of a Mrs. Bidwell, on the second floor, for protection. The maniac followed, and when his wife heard him coming she ran down a back stairway and reached the street, where she called on a man for help. RICHMOND, VA., ANGUST 13, 1834.

told them to say their prayers quickly, as they were about to die. At this point James Gemmill, a neighbor, entered, but was driven out. He returned two minutes later with Officer Craver, just as Twamley had seized the elder child, and was about to draw a knile across her threat. Craver immediately seized Twamley, who went quietly with him for a short distance, and then he became very violent, and it was found necessary to bind him and convey him to the jali in a wagon.

Twamley achieved considerable notoriety about two years ago by chatlenging Robert Keith, senior commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of New York, to mertal combet.
